

STABLE THROUGH THE SENATE OF VICE-PRESIDENT

Lightly, "Abide With Me" and "Gloria, My God, to Thee." The entire congregation joined in the last hymn and this formed a most impressive part of the service. President Taft and several of the Senators participated in the singing.

The procession left the church at 11:30 and proceeded to the home of Mrs. Sherman at 1100 Madison street. The audience standing at the church was borne out. Mrs. Sherman was supported on either side by her daughters as she walked slowly down the steps. Her carriage preceded that of President Taft in the long line that made its way to the cemetery through the streets lined with people.

There was no attempt at display, and the procession was not even headed by a detail of police. Major John H. Smith, in the uniform of an artillery officer, led the only color to the home of the presidential party.

Thousands of persons were at the cemetery in advance of the cortege and watched silently as the long procession wound its way up the hill to the mausoleum. After the service at the tomb President Taft and party were hurried in automobiles to the railroad station. The President's private car had been sidetracked, and a crowd gathered outside watched him as he sat at the window and chatted with Mr. Fairbanks and others. When the Congressional Special, to which the car was attached, pulled out of the station at 5:14 o'clock for New York, there were subdued cheers for the President, who bowed his acknowledgment.

Business in Utica was practically suspended during the hours of the funeral, and several factories closed their doors at noon and did not reopen. At the hour of the funeral all the electric cars in the city were stopped for a period of five minutes.

No Successor on Ticket.

New York, November 2.—After a conference between President Taft and several members of his Cabinet and Republican Senators and Representatives it was officially announced here to-night that no successor to Vice-President Sherman on the Republican ticket would be selected until after the election. Governor Hadley, of Missouri, is known to be favored by President Taft and many of the leaders.

Conferences to-day on the special train which brought the President and several party leaders back to New York from the Sherman funeral in Utica developed opposition to the selection at this time of a man for second place on the ticket.

Some of the leaders believed it would be poor politics to name a man who might not carry his own State and who would therefore go before the electoral college without any vote to start with.

Although President Taft was understood to have approved early on the selection of a vice-presidential choice, he was won over to the other view, and it was said to-night that the national committee at its meeting November 12 will make the selection.

The President reached New York shortly after 10 o'clock. Attorney-General Wickham, Secretary of Commerce and Labor Nagel and Postmaster-General Hitchcock, of his Cabinet; Chairman Hill, of the Republican National Committee, and Senators Root, Crane and Penrose were visitors on his private car on the way down from Utica. The President remained in New York to-night and will leave tomorrow night for Cincinnati. He will go by way of Cleveland, Columbus, Dayton and other big Ohio towns. Although he has no speech scheduled for the trip, it is probable that he will appear on the private platform of his car at many places and say a last word to his fellow-citizens before election.

GOES TO PERU

The city will lose the services of Edward J. Keegan, an assistant City Engineer, November 12. Mr. Keegan has decided to accept a contract with the engineers in charge of extensive water and sewer operations in South America. He will sail on November 12 from New York, going on the work at Iquitos, Peru. The contract will keep the engineer on the Southern continent for two years.

Mr. Keegan attracted the attention of engineers in charge of the Peruvian work by his management of the building of the big Virginia Avenue sewer here, which was only completed a few months ago. He has been connected with the City Engineer's office about three years.

FATALLY INJURED BY BLOWING OUT OF BOILER HEAD

Two Men Killed on Battleship Vermont and Four Others Badly Burned.

Norfolk, Va., November 2.—Two men were fatally injured and four others are seriously hurt from severe scald burns as the result of the blowing out of the head of the battleship Vermont's No. 3 boiler as the Vermont lay at anchor in Hampton Roads last night. The boilerhead blew out while under banked fires. No other damage is reported to the Vermont, which will likely be repaired at the Norfolk navy yard.

The Vermont's dead are: Michael Vincent Horan, coal passer. Richard Matthew Wagner, fireman of the second class. Both bodies are being held pending advice from their next of kin.

The injured are: H. W. Cramer, J. W. Newberry, M. M. Green and C. K. Hotelling. Cramer is said to be seriously injured.

The injured are yet aboard the United States naval hospital ship Solace, to which they were removed early today. It was aboard the Solace that Horan and Wagner died after their transfer from the Vermont in the Roads.

The injured will be removed to the Naval Hospital at Portsmouth as soon as their condition will permit. A naval board will at once investigate the cause of the explosion on the Vermont.

GOVERNOR WANTS NO EMPTY HONOR

He Would Not Have Presidency Without Both Houses of Congress.

ENOUGH TO BREAK HEART

Confident That Coming Election Will Make Senate Democratic.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)

Long Branch, N. J., November 2.—"If I knew I could have the presidency and could know I would not have the support of both houses of Congress I would decline it," said Governor Wilson here to-night.

The Democratic candidate was discussing the possible election of a Democratic Legislature in New Jersey to elect a Democratic Senator. He expressed the hope also that he would have a State body to help him in carrying out his work while he remains Governor.

"I haven't stopped being Governor yet," he said. "It is my ambition to be associated further with the work of reform in New Jersey."

Enlarging on his statement that he would not care for the presidency unless he had a Democratic Senate, Governor Wilson said:

"It would be no doubt a very conspicuous, noticeable place to occupy, but it would be desperately lonely. And not only that, but it would put a man in a position which ought to break any man's heart, if anything will. A position of knowing what ought to be done for the people of the United States, and longing to do it, and being absolutely powerless to accomplish it."

"I cannot imagine anything that would wear the heart out of man more than that—of seeing special interests still entrenched in that ultimate stronghold of the United States Senate; of seeing every impulse of the people of the United States balked and deflected because there was one part of their own government which was withheld from them."

"I do not know what I might be tempted to say if I were in a position like that. And I am of the confident expectation that the people of New Jersey and the people of a number of other States that I might mention are going to see to it that in the next Senate of the United States there is a clear Democratic majority. That is the logic of the situation even for Republicans."

Speaking of his record as Governor, he said:

"All that I have been for you has been in a spotlight. I have simply tried to follow with exposure the people and the things that ought not to be permitted to have any influence in New Jersey. And it has been very interesting how many gentlemen, who come on the stage because of the danger of having the spotlight turned upon them, it has been a perfectly white light. There has not been one colored glass in front of it. It was not yellow. There was no sensationalism about it. It was a perfectly colorless, blinding white light. And that is all that is necessary, only it has got to be turned on from the inside, not the outside."

"If I were outside the government of New Jersey and were to walk all around it with the strongest light that can be invented, people would say: 'Oh, yes, you have been merely suspicious. You say that these things are going on inside, but you do not know. The men inside say they are not. They are very pleasant spoken men, and we were not at all sure that you are not merely suspicious. You have not Christian kindness enough; you ought to give them the benefit of the doubt. But if the light is turned on from the inside, then you can see for yourself.'"

"I do not want to walk around the government of the United States with a spotlight. I would like to turn on the light inside. But what is the good if, after you have turned on the light, nothing can be done, and there are certain impenetrable parts of it to the inside at which you cannot get?"

"Some of the committee rooms of the Senate are hermetically sealed and are impervious to the light, and one of the places not impervious to the light is that part of the Senate committee room on finance, which contains the inside information on which tariff schedules are built. As if I only had the information, what fun it would be to produce it."

SHOT THREE TIMES; FATALITY INJURED

Assailant of Dublin Contractor Then Eludes Pursuing Posse.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)

Dublin, Va., November 2.—Charles Cooper, a contractor, with a loaded revolver in his pocket, sought Mr. Gerberich, and after abusing him with vile language shot him three times, inflicting what are feared to be mortal wounds. Mr. Gerberich escaped and dialed his assistant, but refrained from using his own weapon, which he could easily have done.

The Memphis special on the Norfolk and Western Railroad was stopped to take the wounded man to the hospital in Roanoke. The would-be murderer fled, and he is closely pursued by a posse hastily summoned, but so far has eluded capture.

His victim is a highly-respected citizen.

FOR SAKE OF CHILDREN

Caruso Wants Them to Know Father

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)

Special November 2.—The friends of Signor Enrico Caruso, the tenor, before he commenced his suit against Signorina Glaser and others for defamation of character, urged him not to push the case against the woman, as her conviction and imprisonment would bring shame on Caruso's children, of whom she is the mother.

Caruso said that he would prosecute the suit for the sake of his children, saying: "I want them to know that their father was honest man. As for their mother, they are ashamed of her already since she left their father and ran away with a quackster. She has lost her reputation already. A woman's imprisonment will not hurt her; besides, she is in Buenos Ayres, and will not be such a fool as to return to serve the sentence."

TO ONE IN HEAVEN.

Two years in heaven! I wonder, dear, if you have thought of me since you went to your wondrous mansion on the shore of the Jasper sea?

I wonder if you have forgotten The voice you used to love Since the music of angels singing Has gladdened your home above?

Shall I look in vain among the stars For the one I long to see, And no dear face I have known on earth Be waiting to welcome me?

As, not! It could never be heaven If we met as strangers there; I know you will be waiting to greet me Inside of the loving fair.
